Swiss VCs on Stage

Managers introduce themselves

Successful examples such as company sales and IPOs act as catalysts. Europe is becoming increasingly attractive as a venture capital location and is catching up with the USA. The positive momentum is also spilling over into Switzerland. Numerous new funds with experienced and "new" managers are being launched.

A characteristic feature of these new funds is that, in addition to a focus on specific phases of company development or sectors, they are managed by teams with strong and long-standing entrepreneurial, industrial, scientific and financial expertise. The track record as a team together or as a "new" team in its composition is considered, along with the performance of the predecessor fund, to be the predominant "quality criteria" when deciding to invest in one or the other fund.

More than two dozen new "Swiss" funds have been launched over the past 24 months or are about to be launched. This is good news for investors, who are increasingly able to choose from a wider range of investment opportunities.

This SECA event presents Swiss managers and discusses opportunities, challenges and trends.
