Report from the Chairman

Dear Members and Readers

It is an understatement to say that private markets are thriving. By all common measures the private equity world is doing well. Never have there been so many private market firms and so many new limited partners. The amount of dry powder (uninvested capital) is at an all-time high, a cool CHF 1.7tn of fresh capital worldwide.

The investor returns stand out against all major asset classes, but especially fixed income and credit. Yet it will be challenging to maintain double digit returns in a more crowded environment. It feels that the long lasting bull market in equities is in its last innings. Competition for quality deals is inflating prices to new record levels. Limit partners (LPs) are changing their relationships with general partners (GPs) by seeking more direct access to deals. New categories of investor like state wealth or pension funds are entering the market with own investment programmes.

In addition, we have to admit that size matters, if it comes to future investment returns. Overall assets under management in private markets now exceeds CHF 7tn, mainly in private equity strategies. Our industry has developed from a mere sideshow to the main stage. Consider the fact that the top five private equity firms are among the largest employers in the United States, Europe and Asia. With close to 1’000’000 employees in each region private equity firms have significant political influence and economic power as well as growing regulatory risks.
Fund raising has doubled over the last five years and the number of fresh investment vehicles in the private market exceeds 3’480 funds with aggregate capital targets over USD 1.25tn.

It will be interesting to observe how the high average debt to EBITDA multiples of close to six times on large buyout deals will perform in a rising interest rate environment. Michael Milken, the “Junk Bond King of the 1990s,” has recently warned that too much leverage and loss of junk-bonds and credit covenants could boomerang.

Valuations on large buyout transactions have surpassed 11 times enterprise value to EBITDA multiples well above historical levels. In addition, more and more non-traditional VCs and entrepreneurial investor circles, such as family offices, are investing in start-ups.
The vibrant market conditions lead to the highest number of private equity M&A deals in Switzerland in the past 10 years. According to KPMG, the balance tilted to more acquisitions than disposals and the volume exceeded CHF 50bn in 2017.

A short flashlight on venture capital. An area of special attention of SECA is the Swiss venture capital market. With close to CHF 1bn of capital invested in 175 venture capital financing rounds we again saw a record result. As detailed in the sixth edition of the Swiss Venture Capital Report 2018 (please find a digital copy on our homepage www.seca.ch) the activity is spread over biotechnology, ICT and medical technology. It is very pleasing to see that Switzerland ranks among the top life science hotspots in Europe between May 2000 to June 2015. The “Swiss CryptoValley” is hitting the news ticker around the world.
Indeed, the investment performance of European venture capital in general has come back very nicely after a prolonged period of subpar performance in the aftermath of the “.com Bubble”. Europe is home to a growing number of unicorns – venture capital backed companies with over CHF 1bn valuation. The last count has identified 48 firms. Obviously, this drives up the overall investment performance. The broadly diversified venture capital portfolio of the European Investment Fund (EIF between 1997 – 2012 vintage years) gives a good flavour of the venture capital market. The average realized money over investment at cost multiple (MoC) has increased steadily towards 3 times on the latest vintage years. Things look much better now than a few years ago. Even the median exit multiple between the vintage years 2010 to 2012 are now trading at 1.75x.

SECA - Our key Objectives

SECA is today the sixth largest private equity association globally. In order to bring value to our members and achieve our objectives, we require a vibrant network across the entire private equity eco-system and strong links with policymakers. SECA provides a well-structured platform supported by statistical facts and empirical evidence of our industry activity as well as engaged people who are able to convey our point of view to both governments, private equity players and the public. To this end, SECA has continued to develop its influential marketing on important issues at various levels of government, including the Swiss Parliament and federal leadership. The active support by Bundesrat Schneider-Ammann of the Swiss Entrepreneur Foundation is a good example.

We foster innovation and economic growth. The growing influence of our organisation reflected in its constant increase in memberships and geographic spread (see Figure 8).
Figure 8: Growth in “Quality and Quantity” SECA Membership growth over the last 10 years.

Our constant industry lobbying – supported by a positive shift in the public opinion on our industry – has improved our capacity to deliver our message to the government and business organizations.

To achieve this goal we focus on five key objectives in the coming year:

1. Representation and Lobbying: Maintain dialogue with key stakeholders to effect changes to policy, tax and regulatory environments.

2. Networking: Create an interesting set of event formats and geographical distribution throughout Switzerland. Provide opportunities to increase cooperation and deal flow between SECA members. Use digital technology to this end.

3. Research and Data Analysis: Conduct and publish research on issues important to the venture capital, M&A and private equity industry, including cooperation with institutions like Invest Europe.

4. Professional Standards and Legal Documentation: Our professional standards work contributes inexorably to better industry practices, including environmental, social and governance (ESG) issues.

5. Education and Training: Offer trainings to improve the professional skills and expertise of practitioners or relevant people like pension fund managers.

Industry Representation, Lobbying and Regulation

Last year brought some success, with Swiss lawmakers increasingly recognising private equity’s contribution to long term financing of the real economy. A central theme on our political agenda is the creation of a vibrant venture capital market in Switzerland. Consider the fact that venture capitalists funded the five largest companies in the world. Where would the United States stand today, if policy makers had crippled the Silicon Valley venture industry? Where would Switzerland stand today, if policy makers had allocated all public funding, which went into the Swiss farming sector since 1970 instead to professional venture capital funds? Would the Swiss GDP be double or more the size of today’s figure?
A focal area of work was to improve the venture capital environment and promote new programmes. SECA supports for example key initiatives like the SWISS ENTREPRENEURS FOUNDATION, Swiss Investment Fund (SIF) or Zukunftsfonds Schweiz in order to improve the financing ecosystem and promote growth. Switzerland has plenty of good cards in its hands, let us play them more aggressively.

SECA Communication Platform

Our communication and public affairs team under the leadership of Martin Meier-Pfister has been active in arranging one-on-one meetings with leading influencers and journalists.

The SECA board of directors spread our message on various public engagements, presentations and publications including meeting with the tax authorities, the FINMA or the Private Equity Congress.

Our well regarded SECA eNewsletter is the flagship publication of Swiss private equity and a good showcase of our "all digital programme". It is ranked by Google as the most important website on private equity in Switzerland. The SECA Web App brings us mobile to our members.

On Monday 18.6.2018, we plan the 3rd SECA Summer Party at Frauenbadi Zürich. This Get Together Event will be one of the social highlights in 2018.

Research and Data Analysis

In cooperation with startupicker.ch we published the 6th Swiss Venture Capital Report, the overview and analysis of all publicly announced investments in Swiss start-ups. This is a major contribution to lifting transparency towards Swiss venture capital activity.

Since last year, we have supported the creation of a pan-European database of private equity activity, which will be the fundamental source of information about private equity and on the evolution of the industry’s key statistics. We contribute money to the Invest Europe programme under which the database is developed, which is the first of its kind in Europe. We are still looking for sponsors for this important work.
Professional Standards and Education

In November 2017, SECA conducted the 6th “SECA Private Equity Workshop” in Zürich enrolling not only SECA members, but also professionals from pension funds, asset management and public institutions. In addition to the 7th SECA Private Equity Workshop in November 2018, this year SECA is also offering a SECA Workshop Venture Capital on 25./26.05.2018 in Zürich. Save the date!

Please find a digital copy of the comprehensive “Guidance for Placement Advisors” and the “ESG Due Diligence Questionaire for General Partners” on our homepage, which was published by Invest Europe with our support.

We plan a suite of cutting edge events, networking lunches to members and exclusive book publications and Swiss M&A reports. Our focus is on offering useful products to your work.

Organizational Development – Our Platforms

SECA is fully committed to represent the interest of each group of our diverse membership base. In order to achieve this goal we organise the association around various operating platforms. Each platform led by a chapter leader, who is in charge of achieving a set of objectives, which we renew on a regular basis. These Chapter leaders get support from the SECA Secretariat, which helps to develop a strategy for each industry platform. The chapter leaders form the executive committee.

Organizational Development
I would like to thank all members of the SECA board, working groups and committees, who have given their time to the association; it has been a great pleasure to work with them in 2017. I would like to thank the Prof. Maurice Pedernagna, our secretary general, and his team for all their effort on behalf of the membership.

On 4th of July 2018 we will have a top tier programme of speakers at the SECA Private Equity Conference. Book the date!

Our 33rd SECA General Assembly took place on the 31st of May 2017 at the Au Premier, Zürich.

How will the private equity market evolve in 2018?
Limited Partners and General Partners alike face difficult choices in 2018 about where to find the best risk-adjusted returns for their capital. I think the continued outperformance of private markets relative to other asset classes in recent years could last over this year too.

We observed an equity bull market since 2009, which sooner or later will come to an end. However, it is an important fact in the private equity industry that consistent and disciplined deployment of capital across vintages is critical, given how notoriously difficult it is to time our markets. One of the advantages of illiquid investments is that they are designed to last across market cycles. In the private market funds last over investment periods of six to ten years. So by committing to a given vintage investors should get comfort from the fact that not all capital in a private equity vehicle is being put at risk on day one. The fade of a single investment depends more on the sustainable execution its business strategy rather than the broad direction of interest rates or the short-term swings of the capital markets.

One clear challenge to investors will actually be getting access to the right managers and for the general partners to find attractive investment opportunities for their growing capital base. We have record volumes of capital distributed to investors, demand for re-ups has been high, target allocations of LPs are growing, while new types of investors (e.g. corporates, public wealth funds, Chinese corporates) enter the marketplace. Therefore, competition on quality deals will be hot in 2018.

Chapters & Working Groups
Chapter Seed Money & Venture Capital

Technology and science are changing our world more profoundly than ever, Innovation cycles become shorter and new products penetrate markets faster with high transformative dynamics. These developments provide a fertile ground to startups and entrepreneurs who are taking advantage of these opportunities in growing numbers. Among many factors, they need capital to start, grow and flourish. This capital is provided by Angel and Venture Capital Investors.

VC funds

Venture Capital investments are no passive investments. The manager of the Venture Fund strives to further improve the chances of success of each portfolio company through active support in every aspect, especially through strategic backing. The risk of this asset class thus results from the entrepreneurial risk each company bears, which is according to the early investment phase. Consequently, Venture Capital funds strategically keep the risk moderate by spreading it over a sufficient number of diversified portfolio companies.

The holding period of such a stake is approximately 6 years in average. During this time, the company can develop from a start-up to a leader in the respective sector or can achieve a “proof of market” or “proof of technology”. Thus, with regard to an entire portfolio, this results in a fund lifetime of a Venture Fund of at least 8-10 years.

Venture Capital funds are typically organized as limited partnerships, whereby the General Partner invests the managed capital of the investors (Limited Partners) as private-equity stakes in start-ups. Generally, a part of the managed capital is invested by the General Partner himself (General Partner Commitment). VCs finance new companies with strong growth potential, take board positions and add value to the company through active support of the companies. Returns are generated through the divestment of stakes (exits), mainly via trade sale (90% of all exits) and secondary transactions, as well as occasionally via IPOs. Besides a high-risk/high-return profile, Venture Capital investments exhibit further principal properties:

- 100% of the investments go to the company (and are invested directly into research, personnel, marketing, etc.).
- Normally, a clear minority stake is acquired, which is secured with extensive minority safeguard clauses.
- Venture stakes are supervised very actively. Generally, there is one of the Venture Fund partners in the board of a portfolio company.
- Over the development cycle of a technology venture, there are several necessary financing rounds and steps. With growing maturity of the company, the requirements with regard to the investors change.

VC Stands out as an Asset Class

- Low correlation with stock market: Private equity has performed well despite the financial crisis and its aftermath, with significant VC-backed exits even during the Internet and housing crises. Independent of the strategy, private equity regularly outperforms the return of public equity and according to Preqin, showed a return of 4.7% annually between 2008-2013. This represents an annual outperformance over public equity of more than 700 basis points, compared to the MSCI World Total Return Index, which lost 2% in value during the same period.1,2
Performance Comparison: Historically, Private Equity and Venture Capital have proven to be a consistently high performing asset class, outperforming other asset classes. When comparing performances of asset classes over a 30-year horizon, there is significant value-contribution by Venture Capital compared to common bond- and stock indices.\(^3\text{-}^5\)

Current environment and outlook: General performance expectations for traditional asset classes are modest, with by far more potential in alternative asset classes, such as Venture Capital. As an example among many others, Credit Suisse expects: “Looking forward, we think zero real returns for bonds and 4% to 6% for equities would be a good assumption, with trend returns on a typical mixed portfolio of stocks and bonds down to only 1% to 3% p.a. [...] In a world of diminished beta, necessity will likely drive a renewed search for alpha. This could, for example, take the form of [...] incorporation of alternative risk premia into multi – asset portfolios [...]”\(^4\text{-}^6\)

European VCs drive the best exit multiples globally: While Europe and especially Switzerland are global innovation leaders, there is a significantly lower Venture Capital availability per head compared to many other regions.\(^7\) This is highlighted by the fact, that the Bay Area (US) alone has almost a 100 times higher Venture Capital availability than the DACH region.\(^8\text{-}^{10}\) In light of the importance of this asset class for the development of any start-up into a market-leading company, this capital imbalance is dramatic. Already today, the immense impact of Venture Capital on the US economy is obvious. Over the past 30 years, Venture Capital has become a dominant force in the financing of innovative American companies. Despite the young age of the VC industry, already one fourth of the largest public US companies are VC backed (e.g. Apple, Amgen, Intel, Google, Facebook, Skype, Ebay, Genentech, Fedex and many more) and make up around 25% of the S&P index, while additionally accounting for up to 40% of the R&D spendings by US public companies.\(^11\) Since 2007, VC investment has amounted to approximately 0.2% of US GDP, while generating 21% of the GDP, underlining the economic importance of this asset class.\(^12\) Furthermore, US startups are responsible for over 30% of all jobs created in the past.\(^13\) At the same time, there are hardly any large public companies in Europe that are venture-backed, with leading European stock indices, like e.g. the DAX, without a single venture-backed company.

This market situation has created a unique opportunity for investors focusing on Europe today. With only a fraction of start-ups receiving VC funding, VCs can be very selective. The insufficient number of private investors and the lack of pension and endowment funds, which account for roughly 65% of the US VC industry, created a buyer’s market in Europe.\(^14\) Significantly lower entry valuations than in the US, lower costs of growing businesses and a tighter control of cash invested are guaranteeing the highest efficiency. Thus, although average exit values are around 25% smaller, European VC funds are proportionally generating higher exit multiples, while investing only half the capital to build the winners. In addition, the high innovative strength of European start-ups and the high selectivity by VCs have led to an over proportional share of successful exits.\(^15\)

The SECA Chapter

The aim of the SECA Chapter for Seed Money and Venture Capital is the general representation and to inform and educate its members, the public, corporates and investors about all matters related to seed investing and venture capital. A long-term goal is to improve the general conditions in Switzerland to set up and run VC funds.

Corporate Law Reform
As reported in the 2017 SECA Yearbook, the Swiss Federal Council presented its new draft of the corporate law reform along with the explanatory report (Botschaft) on 23 November 2016 and submitted it to parliament. The main proposals of the draft are:

- The Ordinance against Excessive Compensation in Public Companies is incorporated into the Swiss Code of Obligations. Several proposals to further tighten the compensation regime for listed companies have been dropped.
- A target gender quota of 30% for the board of directors and 20% for the executive committee of publicly listed companies on a "comply or explain" basis is proposed. This is in line with the preliminary draft except that the percentage for the executive committee has been reduced.
- Major companies in the natural resource exploitation industry will be required to disclose payments to public authorities.
- Numerous changes in "traditional" corporate law will be implemented, such as facilitating the process of incorporating and dissolving companies under simple circumstances, permitting a share capital denominated in foreign currency, a minimum par value below one cent, a "capital band" to give companies more flexibility to increase and reduce their share capital, clarification of the requirements for distributions out of capital reserves and interim dividends, and the enhancement of shareholders’ rights in terms of better corporate governance.

As a next step, the draft law will be submitted to the parliament for deliberation and is not expected to be enacted before 2019. SECA will monitor the further progress of the corporate law reform and will inform about significant developments of particular relevance for VC/PE investments in Swiss companies.

Proposed Implementation of "Global Forum" recommendations
On 17 January 2018, the Swiss Federal Council opened the consultation process for a proposed law to implement the recommendations of the Global Forum on Transparency and Exchange of Information for Tax Purposes. The draft new law aims at further tightening the transparency rules following the introduction of notification duties for holders of bearer shares and holders of participations of 25% or more in 2015 in the course of the implementation of the FATF recommendations (Financial Action Task Force):

- Although the anonymity of the holders of bearer shares has already been lifted since 1 July 2015 and holders of bearer shares must identify themselves to the company, bearer shares are now proposed to be abolished entirely.
- Violations of the notification duties are proposed to be punishable by fines.
- Companies would be required to hold a bank account with a Swiss bank.

The Federal Council hopes that with the proposed measures Switzerland will achieve a positive assessment in the next country review by FATF. The consultation process lasts until 24 April 2018. Based on the results of the consultation, the bill will be revised and is expected to be submitted to parliament for deliberation in winter 2018/19. SECA will monitor the progress of the legislative project and inform about significant developments with particular relevance for VC/PE investments in Swiss companies.
FinTech Regulation

In February 2017, the Swiss Federal Council issued for consultation proposed amendments to the Banking Act (BA) and the Banking Ordinance (BO) aimed at facilitating the emergence of innovative business models based on financial technology (FinTech) – see 2017 SECA Yearbook. The Swiss Federal Council enacted corresponding amendments to the Banking Ordinance (BA) with entry into effect as per 1 August 2017. The risk-based and technology-neutral amendments are meant to lower market entry barriers and are based on three pillars: (1) banking license "light" to cater for the specific risk profile of FinTech business models, (2) creation of an innovation area (ie, "sandbox"), and (3) regulatory adjustments with respect to the holding period for settlement accounts:

- The new licence type proposed under the draft regulatory amendments of the Banking Act (BA) targets companies accepting public deposits while not using such deposits to fund traditional lending business. Under the licence, the aggregate amount of public deposits must not exceed CHF 100m (a higher threshold may be individually authorised) and may neither be invested nor be interest bearing. Companies licensed accordingly would be subject to a more lenient capital adequacy framework intended to ease the regulatory burden in cases where FinTech or other companies take deposits, while, from a risk perspective, it would seem disproportionate to impose a full traditional banking licence given their specific business model.

- The sandbox is aimed at creating an innovation environment wherein providers of financial services are not subject to licensing as a result of public deposit taking and it allows company to accept deposits without a banking licence up to an aggregate deposit amount of CHF 1m and irrespective of the number of public deposits, provided that the deposits are not invested, no interest is being paid and the funds are used for commercial/industrial purposes. The sandbox allows FinTech and other companies to test and develop business models without blocking capital and incurring the cost that a full banking licence entails.

- The revised BO provides for an extended holding period for settlement accounts in that third-party monies accepted on accounts for the sole purpose of settling client transactions would not qualify as deposits. The maximum holding period was extended from previously seven days to 60 days, which allows alternative finance platforms to hold monies during the (collection) time period without requiring a banking licence, again provided that no interest is paid and funds are not invested.

Initial Coin Offerings (ICOs)

On 29 September 2017, FINMA published its guidance note 04/2017, set out its position on initial coin offerings (ICOs) and highlighted areas in which ICOs – be it in the form of payment tokensRYPTO-currencies, utility tokens, asset tokens or hybrid tokens – may be covered by existing financial market regulation. Further and in response to the market demand for regulatory clarification on classification aspects and questions relating to the regulatory treatment of ICOs, FINMA published on 16 February 2018 its guidelines for enquiries regarding the regulatory framework for ICOs. In these guidelines, FINMA provides market participants with information on how it will deal with enquiries regarding the supervisory and regulatory framework for ICOs. The guidelines specify the information required by FINMA to process enquiries from market participants and also set out the principles on which FINMA will respond to them.
Swiss Financial Services Act / Swiss Financial Institutions Act

In November 2015, the Swiss Federal Council presented the draft bills on the the Financial Services Act (FinSA) and the Financial Institutions Act (FinIA). The legislative project primarily aims at creating a level playing field for financial service providers, at strengthening investor protection and at harmonizing the Swiss regulatory framework with international, particularly EU standards.

By imposing new regulatory requirements on market participants in terms of transparency, client segmentation, risk disclosure, reporting, continuing education and learning, duties of care and best execution, by introducing an integrated prospectus regime, and by providing for new or altered license obligations, FinSA and FinIA will deeply impact the Swiss financial industry, including the private equity and investment funds segment.

Following detailed consultations by the Council of States and the National Council it is currently expected that FinSA / FinIA will be passed by Swiss Parliament during this year’s summer session and will enter into force in 2019.

Swiss Tax Proposal 17

After the Corporate Tax Reform III was rejected in February 2017, the Swiss Federal Council has launched a revised reform package soon after which has already passed the consultation procedure. The Swiss Federal Council has passed the final dispatch on 21 March 2018. By doing so, the parliamentary debate could be concluded in 2018’s autumn session. The first measures could then become effective as of the beginning of 2019 and the main part of the measures as of 2020, if no one called for a referendum.

The main objective of the Tax Proposal 17 is the same as it was for the Corporate Tax Reform III. It aims to boost Switzerland’s appeal as a business location of international relevance and it should ensure international acceptance of the Swiss tax system (e.g. by the OECD) by abandoning the preferential cantonal tax regimes. The Tax Proposal 17 intends to achieve this with very similar instruments and measures which the Corporate Tax Reform III consisted of, except for the notional interest deduction which shall not be included. In addition the reform contains several adjustments (such as a reduction of the partial taxation relief) which have been developed in close collaboration with the cantons which now support the reform proposal.

Spontaneous Exchange of Tax Rulings

As of 1 January 2018, the spontaneous exchange of information has become effective in Switzerland. The exchange also covers tax rulings concerning international matters such as rulings regarding international tax allocation, taxation of principal companies, transfer pricing and withholding tax. Tax rulings which deal with national tax matters only such as stamp duty rulings are generally not in scope.

Swiss companies were asked by the Swiss Federal Tax Authorities to withdraw any tax rulings which they do not want to be exchanged before 31 December 2017. According to the Swiss Federal Tax Authorities, the withdrawal of tax rulings can still be filed in 2018 with a retroactive effect, if no rights have been derived from such rulings in 2018 yet.

New provisions regarding single investor funds

In late 2017 and early 2018, the SFTA slightly adjusted its practice with regard to the tax treatment of single investor funds. First, single investor funds of property insurance companies are now also recognized from a tax perspective.
A further adjustment with respect to the collectivity of investment schemes is that two (instead of five) independent investors are now sufficient in order for a vehicle to be considered collective (and therefore not deemed a single investor fund). The SFTA has thus officially adapted its practice to the legal basis of the Collective Investment Schemes Act. However, it still remains unclear under what circumstances two investors are considered to be "independent". According to the CISA, for instance, two group companies are considered to be independent, whereas the SFTA has denied this so far based on our experience. The question of independence does also arise in the case of family members or if one investor holds 99.9% in the fund and the other one (e.g. a general partner) does only hold 0.1%.

US Tax Reform
In December 2017, the US introduced a comprehensive tax reform, which also affects private equity investments in the USA. The most relevant changes for portfolio companies are the following:

- A reduction of the corporate tax rate from 35% to 21%.
- The privileged Carried Interest taxation has been slightly modified, but not abolished as feared.
- The introduction of a comprehensive limit on the tax deductibility of interest based on a company’s EBITDA.
- More leeway for depreciations of certain types of fixed assets
- Conversion of the tax system to territorial taxation with participation relief and repatriation tax
- Introduction of a Base-Erosion-Anti-Abuse Tax (BEAT) in order to discourage international tax planning in corporate groups.

The tax reform also features a significant change regarding the sale of shares in US partnerships. Recently, a US court requalified the gains on the sale of partnership shares as capital gains (and thus exempted them from taxation for foreign investors). The tax reform now reverses this decision and treats the profits as Effectively Connected Income (ECI), subject to a 10% US withholding tax and triggering US filing requirements.

All in all, the US tax reform, which came into force at the end of 2017, is the largest in 30 years and has many advantages but also some disadvantages for taxpayers in the USA. Careful analysis of its impact is advised.

SECA Model Documentation
Last but not least, the Legal & Tax Chapter is finalising its coordination efforts for (i) the launch of a new VC Model Documentation "light" for smaller (pre-institutional investor) financing rounds that will be fully compatible with the regular VC Model Documentation and (ii) the launch of the 3rd edition of the regular SECA VC Model Documentation for financing rounds with institutional investors to reflect regulatory changes as well as market input. SECA envisages both documentation launches to occur in Q2 2018.
This is a glimpse of relevant recent or imminent legal, regulatory and tax changes and past and ongoing initiatives of the Legal & Tax Chapter. We continue to strive to improve the regulatory and fiscal environment for the private market industry. This is an uphill battle in a number of respects in view of the current trends of ever more stringent regulation and of fiscal tightening. Bear with us and please let us have your comments and suggestions.

IPO market Switzerland – 2017 was a good vintage

The last year saw four real IPOs, one spin-off and one listing.

Overview

Several companies have used the friendly market environment in 2017 to go public in Switzerland. Volatility was low and investors had little to worry about. Many stock indices are at or near their record highs as investors seek for yield with still very low bond yields. SIX Swiss Exchange, the by far larger of the two Swiss stock exchanges, has welcomed six new companies. These companies combined public share placements worth almost CHF 4.5bn. The largest two Swiss deals, Landis+Gyr and Galenica, even rank among the top ten largest IPOs worldwide in 2017. Snap Inc. and Allied Irish Banks lead this league table with transaction volumes of close to USD 4bn each.

Investors were not only keen to absorb very large deals, but also to look into smaller placements. The last company to go public in 2017 was Poenina, a leading provider of services in building technology and building envelope in the German-speaking part of Switzerland. With a transaction volume of CHF 39m and a market capitalisation of roughly CHF 130m at the end of the first trading day, this was one of the smallest IPOs at SIX Swiss Exchange ever. The proceeds will be used to accelerate growth of the business through acquisitions. The successful transaction shows, that size is not the only important criteria. Investors are willing to look into smaller companies with attractive business models even if the potential stake and investment volume is limited.

Various approaches for a flotation

There are different ways to go public. The most common way is through an Initial Public Offering which includes the placement of new and/or existing shares. When placing new shares, also known as primary shares, the proceeds go to the issuing company. When placing existing shares, also known as secondary shares, the proceeds go to the selling shareholder(s). A second common way to go public is to simply list existing shares without an orchestrated selling and marketing process.

Such a pure listing was chosen by Rapid Nutrition, a natural healthcare company which is already leaving SIX Swiss Exchange again in April 2018. Furthermore, Actelion spun off its discovery and development business named Idorsia in June 2017. By the end of the first trading day, Idorsia was worth almost CHF 1.5bn.

Swiss IPOs with placement of shares

Four companies chose to go public by placing shares with new investors. The well-known healthcare company Galenica split up into its pharma-business (Vifor) and its healthcare provider (Galenica) whereby placing the Galenica shares worth CHF 1.9bn in the market in April. Later, the online pharmacy and wholesale supplier Zur Rose placed both new and existing shares worth CHF 252m. Most of the proceeds went to the company to fund the company’s growth and expansion. Landis+Gyr chose the month of July to go public. The company is a provider of energy management solutions and has a history of more than 120 years. After changing hands several times, its latest parent companies, Japanese Toshiba Corporation and INCJ, sold their full stake worth CHF 2.3bn to new investors.
IPO forecast

The Swiss IPO-year 2018 at SIX Swiss Exchange was successfully launched in March when Medartis, a leading player in the surgical internal fixation market, and Sensirion, a leading global manufacturer of environmental and flow sensors, both went public in the same week. Additionally, Gategroup, a company providing travel industry services, announced its intention of an IPO in early March but later cancelled its plans. The company was only recently taken over by the Chinese conglomerate HNA in spring 2017. HNA is also said to prepare airline caterer Swissport for an IPO in 2018. In addition, social network “A Small World” listed its shares. According to rumours and media, several more companies are evaluating an IPO in 2018. At the time of writing, no additional company had released a so called “intention to float”. Given an ongoing friendly market environment, 2018 could become a worthy successor year for 2017.

Schweizer Venture Capital gewinnt weiter an Grösse und Breite

Schweizer Risikokapitalmarkt gewinnt an Breite

Der Beteiligungsmarkt für die junge Unternehmensfinanzierung hat zusätzlich an Breite gewonnen, was für die zunehmende Reife spricht. Während Life Sciences traditionell stärkstes Standbein bleibt, hat sich auch der ICT-Sektor als zweite treibende Kraft «etabliert». Insbesondere in den Fintech-Sektor, wo es um die Erneuerung von Geschäftsmodellen und um die Effizienzsteigerung von Finanztransaktionen geht, ist viel Schwung reingekommen. Zu erwähnen gilt es auch die Dynamik, die derzeit im Bereich von «Initial Coin Offerings», einer alternativen Form zur traditionellen (Eigen-) Kapitalbeschaffung, stattfindet.

Mehr Wachstumskapital vorhanden

Viel Aktivitäten ausserhalb traditionellem Venture Capital

Weiterhin geringer «Home bias» von Schweizer Investoren

Corporate Ventures auf dem Vormarsch

Ein lebendiges Exit-Umfeld

Formations en private equity SECA-France Invest en Romandie

Proposer un cycle de formations complet au private equity au public romand à des conditions attractives ; tel est le défi qu’ont relevé conjointement et avec succès la SECA et France Invest (ex-ARIC, Association Française des Investisseurs pour la Croissance). L’objectif de ce cycle de formations est de permettre la montée en compétences des professionnels du capital-investissement en Romandie. Ce cycle de formations est proposé à un vaste public, allant des nouveaux entrants dans les métiers du capital-investissement aux professionnels du middle et du back office, mais aussi aux chargés d’affaires et professionnels souhaitant approfondir leurs connaissances.

Le programme capitalise sur l’expérience de France Invest, qui depuis 1998 s’est imposée comme la référence de la formation en private equity en France, offrant plus de 70 formations dédiées. Dans le cadre des échanges inter-associations, la SECA et France Invest ont capitalisé sur ce savoir-faire pour proposer une offre de formations localisées et adaptées au public helvétique en français.

Lancé en 2016-2017 sur la base d’un cycle de cinq formations, ce programme a connu un réel succès auprès d’un large public de professionnels et d’experts souhaitant élargir leurs horizons et approfondir leur connaissance du secteur. Ce cycle fut donc renouvelé et étendu à six formations en 2017-2018, à savoir :

1. Les fondamentaux

Cette formation est conçue pour expliquer le fonctionnement du secteur, les différentes stratégies, les intervenants (souscripteurs, gérants et écosystème), les types de véhicules d’investissement, le mode de fonctionnement des fonds, le modèle économique (frais et commissions), les performances et leur mesure (TRI, MOIC, PME), les risques, ainsi que les modes d’investissement (via un cas pratique).

2. Les due diligences financières

Cette formation propose aux participants à des transactions non cotées d’analyser l’ensemble du processus d’acquisition ou de cession de ce type d’actif. En particulier, le contexte, les intervenants, les documents et le timing sont détaillés. Les points clés, tels que l’activité, l’historique et l’environnement, l’évaluation de l’encadrement et de ses outils, les données financières historiques et prévisionnelles sont par ailleurs étudiées. Enfin, les participants étudient en détail les outils de diagnostic.

3. La valorisation des entreprises non cotées

Cette formation vise à doter les participants des connaissances et réflexes spécifiques à la valorisation d’entreprises non cotées. Les critères et ratios différent de ceux utilisés pour une entreprise cotée, avec un focus particulier sur les critères quantitatifs comme les flux de trésorerie ; et qualitative comme la stabilité, la diversification et la croissance des activités considérées. Ce type d’activité est particulièrement délicat dans le contexte de valorisation de jeunes pousses (start-ups) qui n’ont pas de flux de trésorerie ou de résultat net positifs. Les principales méthodes (flux de trésorerie actualisés, méthode des multiples et autres) sont détaillées.

4. Les conventions d’actionnaires

Cette formation vise à doter les participants des connaissances nécessaires pour planifier et négocier efficacement leurs rapports contractuels en tant que copropriétaires d’entreprises non cotées. La formation détaille les éléments essentiels nécessaires à une convention d’actionnaire bien conçue. Les intérêts des différentes parties prenantes sont étudiés, ainsi que les instruments à la disposition des négociateurs. En particulier, la gouvernance, le transfert d’actions, les droits financiers et les aspects procéduraux sont analysés en détail.

5. Le management package

Cette formation est centrée sur le plan d’investissement de l’encadrement d’une société non cotée. L’objectif est de cerner l’alignement d’intérêt que ce type de plan apporte entre investisseurs et encadrement d’une entreprise. Les outils (BSA, actions gratuites) et leur contexte fiscal sont abordés, ainsi que les différentes techniques et les éléments déclencheurs. Enfin, les différents événements intervenant en cours d’opération de private equity sont également étudiés (départ prématuré de cadres, options d’achat et de vente, vesting, et autres).

6. La levée de fonds

L’objectif de cette formation est d’analyser et de comprendre les relations entre souscripteurs et gérants de fonds lors de la levée de fonds. La dynamique, le contexte et les rapports de force sont étudiés, ainsi que le processus de la levée et les éléments documentaires. Le contenu étudie les sources de capital, les objectifs des souscripteurs, les performances, le processus d’investissement, la sélection des gérants, la gestion du risque, ainsi que le contexte de la levée de fonds, les outils (mandats, co-investissements), l’approche des souscripteurs, les différentes situations des gérants, et le déroulement opérationnel de la levée de fonds (termes, conditions, documentation). La réglementation applicable, notamment en Suisse et en Europe, est également incluse.

Ces formations sont assurées par des professionnels aguerris, faisant bénéficier les participants d’une expérience riche et rare. Nous voulons remercier à cet égard Cédric Bruix, Giacomo Biondi Morra di Belforte, Marc Deschenaux, Pierre Kladny, Caroline Phillips, Xavier Robinot, Andreas Rötheli et son équipe, ainsi que leurs établissements à savoir Sery Entrepreneurs, Capstone Partners, Deschenaux, Hornblower & Partners, Valley Road Capital, ACE & Company et Lenz & Staehelin.

Le format est volontairement restreint de 3 à 15 participants pour favoriser les échanges, les questions et l’apprentissage. De nombreux modules reposent sur des cas pratiques et sont nourris d’ exemples concrets et vivants. Ces formations sont inter-entreprises mais peuvent également être tenues et adaptées dans un contexte intra-entreprise. L’objectif de la SECA est à cet égard d’appuyer la progression de la profession. Fidèle à sa mission, la SECA ne fait pas de profit sur ce programme et en réinvestit les fruits éventuels pour le développement du programme.

Ce programme a pour vocation à être reconduit régulièrement, et étendu en fonction des attentes des membres et non membres. C’est donc avant tout votre programme et nous restons à votre écoute pour le faire progresser. Toute suggestion ou retour d’expérience est bienvenu(e).

VC as an asset class – Movement in the market

Swiss venture capital continues to gain in maturity. An active financing environment faces a brisk environment for corporate sales, but there are also challenges.

After a few years of strong growth, investment in 2017 flattened somewhat. But the market has matured. On the start-up side, ICT has established itself as the second most important sector alongside biotech. On the investor side, investments are no longer made only through traditional venture capital fund vessels, but increasingly via club deals or co-investments by family offices, entrepreneurial families and private individuals.

The traditional single or fund of funds business is changing rapidly, as institutional investors increasingly want a choice of different degrees of involvement. The professionalisation of the venture capital investment market is progressing, with more diverse offerings and new access possibilities.

Growth financing in the CHF 2m to CHF 10m range occurred more often in 2017. This sends out signals and incentives to investors: if follow-up financing is missing later on, early-stage investors are less willing to accept higher-than-average risks if the prospects for success appear to be blighted from the start.

Sales are not enough

Proceeds from company sales or IPOs should preferably be reinvested in new companies. It is essential that not only sales take place, but that investors are compensated for the risks taken with attractive returns. Swiss start-ups have attracted attention in recent years, particularly through sales to larger companies. One downside is that investment from Swiss capital, such as through domestic pension funds or traditional banks, remains very low. The gap can be partially offset by foreign investors, but domestic ‘pioneer’ investors would benefit even more from the potential available.

According to a recent study by Dealroom.co for 2015 to 2017, Switzerland also has the lowest ratio of all European countries: on average, only a quarter of the capital ultimately invested in start-ups over the entire period was collected through Swiss venture capital funds.

Wie unsere Altersvorsorge von Private Markets profitieren kann

Die demografische Entwicklung in der Schweiz stellt eine gewaltige Herausforderung für unsere Altersvorsorge dar. Weil wir Menschen immer älter werden, aber nicht länger arbeiten, wird mehr Geld für die Renten benötigt. Erschwerend hinzu kommt, dass sich durch den langen Anlagehorizont besonders akzentuiert.

Dennoch haben Schweizer Pensionskassen in den letzten sieben Jahren solide Renditen von durchschnittlich knapp 5% pro Jahr verdient. Die aktuelle durchschnittliche Zielrendite liegt bei 3.1% pro Jahr¹.

Der 3. Beitragszahler ist gefordert

Um die demografische Entwicklung abzufedern, wäre der 3. Beitragszahler allerdings noch stärker gefordert. Mit der heute in der Schweiz verbreiteten durchschnittlichen Zielallokation zu den Standardanlageklassen von 32% Obligationen, 31% Aktien und 23% Immobilien¹ lassen sich in naher Zukunft kaum höhere Renditen erzielen.

Aktuelle Asset Allocation im Vergleich [1] [2]

![Diagramm der aktuellen Asset Allocation von Schweizer Pensionskassen und Canada Pension Plan]

Canada Pension Plan und die Universitätsstiftungen von Harvard, Standford und Yale begründen ihre höhere Allokation zu Private Markets mit der erwarteten Überrendite, den Diversifikationsvorteilen und ihrem langen Anlagehorizont.

Vorteile von Private Equity sind höhere Renditen für Investoren, höheres Wachstum und höhere Profitabilität der finanzierten Unternehmen sowie positive Impulse für Innovation und Arbeitsplatzwachstum\(^4\). Mit Private Debt und Private Infrastructure werden neue Finanzierungssquellen für Unternehmen oder Projekte erschlossen. Und Investoren können Themen abdecken, die sonst nicht oder nur beschränkt zugänglich sind.

Um die Vorteile dieser Anlageklassen nutzen zu können, sollte die Private Markets-Zielallokation von langfristig orientierten institutionellen Investoren nach unserer Einschätzung 3% bis 7% betragen.

Argos Index – the mid market reference

In a context of lower M&A activity valuations remain at a level about 20% higher than the average of the last ten years. This is especially true for financial buyers, who continue to value their acquisitions above 9x EBITDA, while strategic buyers were more conservative than in the two previous quarters. Interesting as well is the increase in activity in the Business and Consumer Services industry at its highest point for the last three years and accounting for more than 25% of the transactions of the sample.

Methodology

The Argos Mid-Market Index measures the evolution of euro zone private Mid-Market company valuations. Carried out by Epsilon Research for Argos Socitc and published every three months, it reflects median EV/EBITDA multiples, on a six-month rolling basis, of Mid-Market M&A transactions in the euro zone.

Index trend

Mild decline in the Index in the 4th quarter, activity Mid-Market M&A at a historically low level

The Argos Mid-Market Index fell by 4% to 9.1x EBITDA in the 4th quarter of 2017. It is due to the drop in the multiples paid by strategic buyers (compared to an exceptionally high level in the 3rd quarter) to 9.1x EBITDA, particularly in the upper Mid-Market segment (transactions between € 150m and € 500m). The decrease is in line with the fall in listed Mid-Market company multiples (by 1% to 9.5x EBITDA). However, prices still remain above 9x EBITDA, which is 20% higher than the average of the last ten years. They are driven by the recovery in prices paid by private equity funds to 9.2x EBITDA, benefitting from an economic and financial environment which is still very favourable and a very strong investor interest in Mid-Market capital private equity in Continental Europe. The drop in the Index comes with a 15% decline in Mid-Market activity over the period (both in volume and value), surprising fact which contrasts with a very strong activity of the previous quarter, and with the stability of the Mid-Market M&A of larger transactions.
Buyout capital vs strategic buyers

Drop in prices paid by industrial players and increase in prices paid by funds

The decline in the Index in the 4th quarter 2017 is linked to the big drop in multiples paid by strategic buyers, to 9.1x EBITDA, which are back at the same level as in the 2nd quarter, after the exceptional level in the 3rd quarter. This fall is in line with the drop in Mid-Market quoted company multiples (from 9.6x to 9.5x EBITDA1 – cf. graph opposite), in a stock market which was stable over the 4th quarter2. At the same time, multiples paid by funds resumed their increase to 9.2x EBITDA. In an economic and financial environment which remains favourable (low rates and available debt), private equity funds are benefitting from the strong interest of institutional investors in Mid-Market private equity investment in continental Europe.

1 EV/ LTM EBITDA, Mid-Market, Euro Zone listed companies (Source: Infront Analytics)
2 0.4% increase in the EURO STOXX® TMI Small Index over the 4th quarter
M&A activity in the Eurozone

Decline in M&A Mid-Market activity in the Eurozone

Mid-Market M&A activity in the Eurozone has fallen in the 4th quarter, by 15% vs 3rd quarter and by 8% vs 4th quarter 2016. On the full year 2017, only 1,120 Mid-Market operations were carried out, down 12% vs 2016. This is in contrast with the dynamism of the European large-cap market which is stable compared to 2016. In value, the overall European market has seen strong growth at +16%, compared to 2016, to $862bn.

The market is driven by the acceleration in economic growth in the Eurozone and by a trend towards European consolidation. In Europe, only M&A activity in the UK continues to stagnate in volume and to decrease in value terms in the mid-market: -30% vs 2016.

VC Funds – A new generation is coming

New and larger venture capital funds from Swiss-based managers have been a rare sight for many years. But now several managers have launched new funds or announced plans for imminent fundraising – and among them are new offers.

Now they are here: new and larger managed funds from Switzerland that have started their investment activities over the last two years. These include Lakestar Advisors with €350m, Endeavour Vision (€250m), BioMedPartners (final closing between CHF 120m and CHF 150m) and Redalpine Venture Partners (about CHF 100m). Other fund closings include btov Partners, MTIP MedTech Innovation Partners, Nextech Invest and Polytech Ecosystem Ventures. The teams at Bellevue Asset Management and Creathor Ventures are also fundraising, while Aravis and Swisscom Ventures have made their intentions known.

These activities are a very welcome development for the continued growth of the Swiss ecosystem, and for the investor they signal widening opportunities in the investment universe.

The Swiss venture capital (VC) market has gained in size in terms of invested capital and in terms of sector diversity in recent years. In addition to life sciences with its long-standing tradition, the ICT sector and new business models in the field of fintech are also becoming a driving force.

Investing after the exit

And a variety of corporate sales have taken place in recent years: successful entrepreneurs have continued to establish new start-ups or have become active on the investment side.

New fund managers are maturing and the funds of existing managers growing in size. The fund closings confirm this trend, in particular with established fund managers with a proven track record and with new teams of experienced professionals on the corporate or investment side. Just as start-ups do not thrive overnight, development of fund managers takes time too.

The VC market went through a wave of disillusionment in the first decade of the new millennium and a consolidation among managers took place. Now a network of experienced investment specialists is developing, favoured by the market situation.
This pleasing situation has not gone unnoticed abroad. The quality of Swiss start-ups and the maturing ecosystem as a whole has lured foreign VC managers such as Versant Ventures and Bay City Capital from the US to Basel, and last year UK-based Rewired moved to Lausanne.

Rewired is focusing its activities on a new generation of smart robotics and has announced the launch of a $100m fund.

The five forces of private equity

Private equity has grown from the status of a cottage industry in the 1990s to a full fledged asset class. This shift is so radical that it calls for an analogy with astrophysics. First, private equity exhibits a gravitational effect for investors. This leads to the equivalent of black holes, as the industry is subject to herding effects. To succeed, Investors have to dare to be different (entropy) and actively manage the third dimension of investing (liquidity). The ransom of success for the Industry is to anticipate the effects of regulatory entanglement.

Gravity

Assets managed by private equity fund managers have grown from an estimated total of USD 578bn in 2000 to more than 2.5tn at the end of 2017. This growth is fuelled by new commitments by institutional investors, which translate into roughly USD 900bn of capital ready to be invested (‘dry powder’). This amount is an all-time high, outstripping the USD 678bn to be deployed in 2018. Some observers see a cause for alarm in this figure, but a quick ratio between amounts to be invested and amounts invested show that the average over 2000-2005 was 90% while it fell to 46% over 2011-2016. As some of the dry powder is used to recycle some assets in portfolio (through so-called subsequent LBOs, for example), it appears as growing in line with the sector itself.

However, four causes for concern emerge. First, fund investors tend to concentrate their investments in a small number of funds dedicated to large and mega LBO in the US, fuelling price inflation and therefore leading to lower mid-term performance⁰. Second, an increased number of fund investors also reserve some of their private equity allocation to co-invest with funds. This fuels further the inflation of valuations of large companies targeted by US LBO fund managers. It is estimated that dry powder reserved for co-investments represents 25% of the total committed every by investors in private equity funds.

Third, current fundraising relies a lot on wealth effects. Many investors allocate their assets according to a simple breakdown in percentage. The continuous increase of stock prices over the course of the last eight years has led to a de facto overweight of listed stocks. This triggered significant increases in allocations to private equity, in order to stick to asset allocations.

Fourth, the 1.6tn worth of assets in portfolio themselves are subject to an inflationary phenomenon. Valuation methods of portfolio companies have shifted from prudent/historical methods to a ‘fair market’ method relying on mark-to-market. As listed stocks have witnessed a continuous and significant increase in their price, the value of private companies marked to market correlatively increased. This could pave the way to bad surprises, in the case of a significant and durable correction of valuations of listed assets.

⁰ This is further developed in Demaria C., ‘Is there too much capital in leveraged buyouts?’, Critical Perspectives, n° 60, August 2017, Wellershoff & Partners
Black holes

Private equity fund investors have over time tried to import some of their practices developed for other asset classes. First, large institutional investors have tried to reduce the number of their relationships with fund managers. This approach supposedly supports them in getting a better deal and reduces their monitoring costs. Second, investors have tried to save on fees, that they judge as comparatively high as regard to the rest of the financial services providers.

This has proven to be wishful thinking. Private equity is not scalable. Only very large funds can accommodate proportionally higher commitments. And deal size is directly correlated to fund sizes. In effect, large investors reducing the number of their relationships have shifted to a concentrated asset allocation and therefore increased their risk. Moreover, they have focused on brands that are not necessarily providing the best of breed in every single strategy. The one-stop-shop of private markets (or of investing, in certain cases) often translates in suboptimal choices under the cover of the marginal reduction of costs (the ‘save a penny, lose a pound’ phenomenon). Saving on fees, notably through co-investments, can lead to adverse selection and invest in deals that are out of the sweet spot of fund managers (here again increasing risks).

Another black hole is the pressure to deploy capital. Investors have suffered for many years from low interest income. They have entered a race to find alternative sources of revenues compensating the shortfall associated with sizeable allocations to fixed income investments. As private equity funds deploy capital over five years, and a sound allocation requires investing over five to seven years, capital is deployed relatively slowly. Investors also do not get to deploy 100% of their capital as funds call capital while other distribute. Not surprisingly, secondary investments, which promise fast capital deployment and rather short time-to-liquidity, have witnessed a strong capital inflow. The consequences are that investors misled by artificially high internal rates of returns effectively leave profits on the table.

Entropy

Academic literature has proven that solid investors in private equity funds have the capacity to generate additional performance through their asset allocation (20% of the outperformance against their peers) and their fund manager selection (80% of their outperformance). This is not only true in selecting established but also emerging fund managers. The proportion of first-time funds has decreased to 7% of total capital raised by private equity funds. These funds exhibit a higher performance (31% are top quartile and 23% second quartile) but require more expertise and resource to evaluate the fund manager.

The third dimension of investing: liquidity

Private markets are wrongly seen as ‘illiquid’, leading many investors to completely shun them. In fact, the average investor exposure is three to five years, depending on the region and the strategy considered. The aggregate pooled average net performance ranges from 1.1x for some opportunistic real estate funds to 1.8x for American growth capital. As investors usually set an investment time-horizon of five years, avoiding private markets implies to sacrifice attractive returns associated with low risk. This is a high premium paid for liquidity. Most investors could be better served by setting cash reserves.
Entanglement

Regulatory entanglement, already high since the implementation of the ill-conceived European AIFM Directive, could worsen if the profession does not engage constructively and pragmatically with political and regulatory bodies at national and international levels. Fund managers cannot act anymore as if being under the radar and tending for a small business: they command power on large swaths of developed economies and will suffer the backlash following failed operations as in the recent past. We need to collectively act responsibly for the benefit of the profession and the public and pre-empt the most contentious debates by offering innovative, concrete and attractive solutions to political, regulatory and social representative bodies. This is the price for a thriving private equity sector.

Corporate VC – Looking for innovation

Originating from the US, corporate venture capital is on the rise in Europe and the momentum has also spilled over into Switzerland. Corporate activities in the financial and media sectors and in industry have risen. And at the long-term level, big pharma players are also increasing their activities – access to inventions and innovations is their future.

In the global corporate venture capital (VC) area, Intel Capital and Google Ventures have long dominated, and today the corporate venture capital activities in China of Tencent and Alibaba are even more extensive. But corporate VC is also on the rise in Europe. In the past year, one in four of all financing rounds was made by an active venture capital investor, a corporate venture capitalist. And the statistics from Dealroom.co make this clear: capital invested in start-ups by corporate VC funds increased six-fold from 2012 to 2016.

Strengthening the bond

Corporate VC has established itself as an approach to open innovation within the term ‘corporate venturing’. The spectrum ranges from simple internal initiatives, to partnerships with start-ups, to investment activities (with or without own funds) and to acquisitions.

This is where corporate VC is gaining in importance with the central intention of strengthening the bond with the best start-ups and start-up teams through an investment, as Lukas André, venture partner of Redstone, explains below. Redstone manages the corporate venture funds of several international groups and connects established companies with ambitious founders.

The motivation of corporate VC funds varies widely, even in Switzerland. For some companies, it is important to conduct a strategic in-use monitoring in addition to their own R&D units. Through examination of investment opportunities, the VC fund manager gains an exciting view of where start-ups in their field of observation are developing technologically. With investment, there is the option of retaining marketable innovations at an early stage, and the potential for commercial partnerships and/or a later acquisition may emerge.

However, as André says: “Investing in a start-up is not the same as an M&A transaction with which companies are more familiar. An investment must be designed so that the start-up retains its independence and does not lose momentum, and it lays the foundation for a mutually rewarding partnership. Due to the risk profile of start-ups, it is always worth thinking about a portfolio.”

Therefore, the question arises for the company of whether an independent team should be set up or whether, given the available resources and skills, a partnership with investment specialists – even with traditional VC fund managers – would be more useful. In addition, co-investment under the lead of a conventional VC fund, which is responsible mainly for due diligence, can be debated too.
Strategy matters

Some corporate VC fund managers are located in the vicinity of the CEO. The rate of return is not in the foreground per se. Rather, they are tasked with finding new technologies and business models for the company.

The investment strategy of a corporate VC fund focuses on strategically relevant topics that are in line with the current market orientation, but which are also increasingly aware of areas and business models that are of lesser relevance or even alien to the sector today, but which may fundamentally change in the future. For Swiss Post, it is not only topics in the area of logistics and digitisation that are of interest, as would be generally assumed, but also aspects of mobility, online trade and the concept of the smart city.

In Switzerland, large corporations, including Novartis, Roche, Nestlé, Syngenta and the technology and communications companies ABB and Swisscom, have long been pursuing the innovation and investment model of corporate venture capital. Zühlke Engineering is very active in the field of private companies. Meanwhile, Tamedia and Ringier play an important role in the media sector.

And in the finance and logistics sector in particular, venture activities have already started or been announced by PostFinance, SIX and Swiss Post (as mentioned above). Just a few weeks ago, SIX reported its intention to launch a CHF 50m corporate VC fund with a fintech orientation. The intention is to keep SIX at the forefront in innovation and ensure it does not lose its technological leadership.

The insurance sector includes several active companies, such as the Baloise Group, Helvetia Versicherungen and Swiss Life, and the banking sector is also moving to catch up with trends in digitisation.

Startup INVEST – joined digitalswitzerland in 2017

Another intensive year with one major change for Startup INVEST: The affiliation with digitalswitzerland in order to foster the Swiss Startup Ecosystem even more.

At the extraordinary General Assembly in June 2017, the members of Startup INVEST agreed to become part of the digitalswitzerland initiative. This will allow Startup INVEST to get even better access to big corporates to improve the match making and networking outcomes in the future.

Our freshly redesigned Swiss Venture Day “reloaded” were well received by Investors and Startups. A new pitching format, less time and slides, and adding the 1:1 meetings in order to get even more match making opportunities attracted more Investors and allowed to have more Startups on stage. The events were held in Zurich (April 2017, Lausanne (September 2017) and Lugano (December 2017). In addition we also supported the “venture” Investor Day (in June 2017), two Investor Forums for STARTFELD in St. Gallen and the StartCup Ticino.

For 2018 three Venture DAYS will be organized at the following locations: Zurich (Kraftwerk), Lausanne (EPFL) and in Lugano (USI). In 2019 a Venture DAY in Basel is planned for the first time.

For the first time in 2017 the Swiss Startup DAYS were two full days and we hit again a new record of participants (> 750).

Due to the strong demand, we had to run two Elevator Pitches, one in the Messeum Basel and one in the Prime Tower Zurich in order to select the Startups for the Pitching Battle of the Swiss Startup DAYS.

During the first day 10 Masterclasses were offered to the 350 attending Startups. In the afternoon 3 Panels were held with the idea that the audience could ask all the questions they always wanted to ask the following parties on stage: Investors, Lawyers and Startup Champions.

In the evening we welcomed more than 150 Investors and Supporters to our traditional Investor Dinner. Besides a great keynote by QoQa the Venture Leader Ceremony 2017 was held.

The second day, more than 750 participants attended and we started with 40 Investors on Stage followed by the Pitching Battle. Again 60 promising Startups battled in front of the investors on three different Stages.

After lunch the Council of the Swiss Confederation, Johann Schneider-Ammann, received a warm welcome by all participants and answered questions of the audience. After the keynote by Innosuisse the 1:1 meetings started with 100 tables and more than 1’200 meetings.
The Final of the Pitching Battle, with great prizes for the winners of each stage, marked the end of another very dynamic edition of the Swiss Startup DAYs.

At the event we also distributed the 9th Edition of the Swiss Startup Guide, with 32 cover stories and 20 Startup profiles (www.startupguide.online).

In 2017, digitalswitzerland and the Economic Promotion of the Canton Bern were Presenting Partners of the Swiss Startup DAYs. Furthermore Innosuisse (formerly Commission for Technology and Innovation CTI) acted as Event Partner.

To get a better feeling and understanding for the Swiss Startup DAYs just watch our new After Event Movie (www.ssud.ch).

On 28th November 2017 more than 100 participants attended the first IPO DAY in the Kraftwerk Zurich. 15 Swiss High Tech Companies pitched to the Investment Bankers and Advisors without any slides. Thereafter the Investment Bankers and Advisors were on stage for their pitch to all participants before the 1:1 meetings started. At the same time, the presenting partners EURONEXT and Bank Rothschild Advisors held a workshop about the IPO topic.

For 2018 many more events will be organized for all our members but also all Startups looking for funding. Daniel Bermejo joined at the beginning of this year as new Deputy Managing Director to support all our efforts in the future. Thank you Mike Baur, Swiss Startup Factory, for your support as Deputy in the past two years.

To close, as every year, we would like to thank all our members, partners and sponsors for their support and look forward to work even more intensively with digitalswitzerland in 2018.

Alternative Financing with Private Debt

Private Debt investments reached an all-time high in 2017 and the number of Private Debt funds has quadrupled over the past decade. With Institutional Investors planning to increase their allocation towards Private Debt, the popularity of Private Debt in Europe is stronger than ever. Recent developments fostered a dynamic and thriving market environment for Private Debt with the potential to seriously challenge the role of banks in lending. In a market traditionally dominated by banks, the funding gap caused by a growing demand for financing and decreasing capacities of banks to lend can be filled by Private Debt managers.

Private Debt market development

Over the last years, the market demand for Private Debt investments in Europe has experienced rapid growth. According to a survey conducted by Preqin in 2018, Private Debt is among the most sought-after asset classes within alternative investments (Preqin Global Private Debt Report 2018). Going forward, 42% of those investors surveyed are planning to commit more capital to Private Debt funds within the next twelve months.

In 2017, global Private Debt fundraising surpassed USD 100bn. At the same time, global assets under management in Private Debt reached an all-time high of USD 638bn. Consequently, the last year has accentuated the increase of capital allocated to Private Debt and has proven that Private Debt managers are facing a larger investor base with increasing allocations toward alternative investments. Currently, the interest in Private Debt as an alternative asset class is stronger than ever.

Underdeveloped European market with great potential

Compared to the US, Private Debt has still a large growth potential in Europe. Traditionally, Continental Europe has a highly banking-oriented financial system, where traditional financial institutions are involved in 50% of all financing transactions. In the US, 75% of all financing transactions are done by non-bank institutions, and only 25% by credit institutions like banks.

Against this background of a comparatively underdeveloped European market, market players like Vicenda Asset Management with its multiple Private Debt investment vehicles (such as its single transactions securitization vehicle Thalos Investment Platform S.A., the Daneo Private Debt Fund and the Swiss SME Loan investment opportunity) are stepping in to close this financing gap, offering investors attractive investment opportunities in a growing asset class to further diversify their portfolio.

Drivers of the continuous advance of Private Debt

The uptick in growth for the asset class of Private Debt can be attributed to two main drivers:

1. Increasing regulation including higher capital requirements have reduced banks’ lending capacities

The adoption of an increasingly stringent regulatory framework can be traced back to the years following the 2008 global financial crisis. Tighter banking regulations like the new Capital Requirements Directive IV under the Basel III framework have curtailed banks’ lending to SMEs, to large corporates and in special situations generally. Furthermore, entirely new ratio requirements (such as the net stable funding ratio (NSFR) and the liquidity coverage ratio (LCR) have been implemented. This results in higher capital requirements for banks to cover for short-term liquidity disruption and reduces the appetite of banks to lend. These capital requirements imposed on Swiss and European credit institutions have significantly reduced banks’ lending activities and have rendered several types of banks’ business activities economically unviable.

Therefore, the importance of banks within Europe’s credit system has already started to decrease significantly. This trend does not only apply to lending to SMEs, but also to extending loans to large corporates and private individuals.
2. Central banks’ expansionary monetary policy has caused a low yield environment, making it difficult for institutional and private investors to achieve their target returns in fixed income

While regulation has caused a decrease in banks’ lending activities, central bank interventions like quantitative easing have created a low-yield environment for investors. Facing difficulties to achieve their target returns in such a setting, investors have shown increasing interest in alternative fixed income investments such as Private Debt.

Private Debt as an asset class

Private Debt transactions can be described as privately negotiated loans extended to non-public companies. These loans are not publicly traded and often have no rating. As there is typically no liquid secondary market for Private Debt loans, investors are rewarded with an illiquidity premium. Typical investors are institutional investors, such as pension funds and insurance companies, as well as family offices, UHNWs and treasury departments.

Private Debt funds typically have a fixed tenor of 3 to 5 years. Depending on the specifics and the risk/return profile of the trade, typical Private Debt transactions generate returns between 5% and 15% p.a. in CHF. Very often, such transactions also feature a comprehensive security package to improve the underlying risk profile.

The spectrum of Private Debt transactions is wide and includes senior debt, junior debt, special situations and even equity-like transactions. Thereby, these transactions are structured and executed via a variety of different vehicles and platforms, reaching from peer-to-peer lending marketplaces to more classical fund formats.

Matching interests of borrowers and investors

The various alternative investment strategies and their applications are endless. On the borrower side, Private Debt financing can be utilized as an efficient way to increase working capital or to finance growth and acquisitions. Furthermore, these transactions can be used to improve balance sheet ratios and to optimize a company’s capital structure through capital relief transactions.
From an investor’s perspective, Private Debt investments offer access to a new attractive asset class, which diversifies the investor’s overall portfolio construction. Through the illiquidity premium and flexible negotiation of the deal documentation (loan and security agreements), investors can achieve superior risk/reward profiles compared to other debt instruments and alternative investments.

The fact that only a few parties are involved (e.g. the borrower and lender) offers an opportunity to structure tailor-made financing solutions that cater to the distinct and sophisticated needs of borrowers as well as of investors. The key features of such transactions are an efficient negotiation and highly flexible terms (such as defining specific covenants), the inclusion of credit enhancement features and the speed of execution. Given these characteristics, Private Debt investment opportunities significantly outperform unsecured corporate bonds by offering an overall superior risk/return profile.

Switzerland, a leading country in biotech innovation, but with lack of local venture capital

Switzerland is home to more than 280 biotech companies. The majority of these companies are performing research & development (R&D) with the aim to develop novel therapies in many different diseases. The number of such R&D biotech companies continuously grew over the last years reaching more than 220 companies at the end of 2016. Overall, more than 15,000 people are employed by all Swiss biotech companies (source, Swiss Biotech Report 2017). The majority of these positions are highly educated jobs with a high value creation, an ideal profile for Switzerland also for future growth.

Swiss biotech companies have a strong pipeline of novel therapeutics

The combined Swiss biotech companies present a strong pipeline of novel therapies. In 2017, 50 clinical trials by Swiss biotech companies were ongoing in phase 1 and 2, and an additional 11 phase 3 clinical trials, the last step before filing and registration of a new drug. The number of these clinical trials compares well to the number of clinical trials run by the two big Swiss pharma companies Novartis or Roche. Remarkably, the majority of the clinical trials by Swiss biotech companies encompass completely novel drugs and therapies whereas many clinical trials run by the big pharma organizations either are reformulation or indication expansions of existing drugs. Thus, the Swiss biotech companies focus on novel drugs to achieve better treatments which represents a much more innovative pipeline. The top five indications of Swiss biotech companies are neurobiology, infectious diseases, oncology, inflammation and ophthalmology.

Switzerland as a leading country for biotech patents

In biotechnology, patents are the key assets and a primary focus on due diligences for financing rounds but also collaborations and acquisitions. Over the last years, the number of patent applications by Swiss applicants in the field of biotechnology continuously grew. Compared to other fields, the number of biotechnology patent applications are by far leading followed by patent applications covering medtech and organic chemistry. This shows that biotechnology is the key driver for innovation in Switzerland. On an international level, biotech patents by Swiss applicants are the most important globally. This is measured by the relevance of the patents which means number of citations as well as market coverage. In this matrix, Switzerland is the leading country globally (source IPI, Swiss Biotech Report 2017).

Many Swiss biotechs are financed trough venture capital, mainly from US and UK

Biotechnology is a very capital intensive industry. Extremely long development cycles of new drugs over 10 to 15 years to reach the market combined with very expensive infrastructure as well as and research and development force most of the biotech companies to finance their business through capital increases. Swiss biotech companies were successful in raising capital during the last years. In 2016, more than CHF 800m were invested in Swiss biotech companies (Fig. 1). However, the time to close financing rounds is long. Any new financing round can easily consume 12 to 18 months of the management. Furthermore, most of the Swiss biotech companies are looking for lead venture capitalists in the US or UK due to the specific expertise of these investors in biotechnology, but also due to the large size of several biotech venture funds in these two countries. Thus, of the CHF 472m invested into private Swiss biotech companies in 2016, the majority of the capital came from US or UK venture capital funds.
Switzerland has not enough local venture capital

Switzerland has a very active biotechnology ecosystem. This includes excellent academic institutions in life sciences which generate many innovative Start-ups, top pharma companies with an abundant talent pool of which many Swiss biotech companies can profit from through recruitment of experienced personnel. In addition, world leading contract manufacturing organizations in Switzerland that can manufacture complex biotechnology products for which close proximity to the Swiss biotech companies ensure an efficient communication and material transfer. Furthermore, over the last years, several successful exits of Swiss biotech companies occurred generating a pool of experienced biotech entrepreneurs. What is missing in this ecosystem is venture capital to finance biotech companies. Despite the abundance of capital in Switzerland, institutional venture capital is hardly available. Within Europe, Switzerland is in a poor position regarding local venture capital (Fig. 2). Compared to the European average, Switzerland has 3 times less venture capital measured in percentage of the gross domestic product of the respective country. Compared to the UK, the difference is even 8 times less.

Pureos Bioventures, a new venture capital fund for next generation biologics

A team of experienced venture capitalists and biotech entrepreneurs recently launched the fundraising for a new venture capital fund, Pureos Bioventures, which will invest in 15 to 20 private, innovative drug development companies located in Switzerland and abroad. The fund will focus on companies developing the next generation of biological drugs for indications with high medical need. Pureos Bioventures will invest at early stages, classically in preclinical research and development and support the companies to reach clinical proof-of-concept with their new therapies. With this new initiative Pureos Bioventures will be in a position to support several Swiss biotech companies helping to prosper the local biotech ecosystem.

Financial Audit & Report
To the general meeting of
SECA – Swiss Private Equity & Corporate Finance Association
Grafenzuweg 10

Cham, March 2, 2018

Report of the Statutory Auditors to the general meeting of SECA – Swiss Private Equity & Corporate Finance Association, 6304 Zug

As statutory auditors, we have carried out a review of the financial statements of SECA – Swiss Private Equity & Corporate Finance Association for the financial year ended on December 31, 2017.

Responsibility for the financial statements is the board of the association, whereas our task is to submit a report on the financial statements based on our review.

Our review took place in accordance with the Swiss Audit Standard 910. This means that a review is to be planned and executed in such a manner that material misstatements in the financial statements are identified, even though not with the same assurance as in the case of an audit. A review consists mainly of interviewing members of staff and analytical audit work in relation to the data forming the basis for the financial statements. We have conducted a review, not an audit, and are therefore not submitting an audit opinion.

In the course of our review, we did not identify any circumstances which would lead us to the conclusion that the financial statements do not correspond to the law and the articles of association.

Short Company Profile

Brainloop was founded in 2000, and saw businesses making major gains in productivity and competitiveness by using the Internet to collaborate with external partners. But the same tools that made collaboration so effective also wreaked havoc on the security and control over information distribution that companies relied on. A lot of companies tried to bring security and collaboration together by using virtual data rooms, but fell short on policy compliance. Brainloop saw a need to go beyond that, to create an easy-to-use online platform that companies can use to roll out their confidentiality policies so that users are automatically in compliance, every time they share a document. Thousands of users on six continents rely on Brainloop’s Munich, Zug, Vienna, Paris, and London offices for exceptional service and support. Brainloop helps companies like BMW Group, Deutsche Telekom, RWE, ThyssenKrupp, T-Systems, Eurocopter, Voith, ERGO, Twitter, PWC, EWZ, AXA Winterthur, Helvetia Versicherungen and Zurich Insurance.

Short Company Profile

At Unigestion we focus on an area of the private equity market that is difficult or inefficient for investors to access themselves – small and mid-market global private equity. Since there are barriers to access, we believe this part of the market offers the greatest potential for superior returns, yet many investors need guidance before being able to participate fully in this market. We have provided such guidance for more than 20 years. With the acquisition of Akina in 2017, Unigestion created a global small and mid-market specialist with a team of 50 specialists and USD 7 billion assets under management. It has private equity operations in Geneva, Zurich, London, Luxembourg, Jersey City and Singapore. The Unigestion Private Equity team was awarded “Private Equity Manager of the Year” by European Pensions Awards 2017 as well as the Gold Award (2011, 2016) and the Silver Award (2012 ~ 2017) for “Best LP, Regional Strategy” by Private Equity Exchange & Awards. In connection with these tasks, we are able to add the necessary notarization powers to our list of services. As public notaries, we are authorized not only to draft public deeds to incorporate companies and to generally execute deeds requiring public notarization. Although for the most part our lawyers advise their clients on a private and individual mandate basis, we occasionally are requested to accept the duties of a directorship. Each of our partners acts as a member of various boards of directors in companies with which we maintain particularly close ties.

We help private equity firms and the best investment professionals. Private Equity professionals must be equipped with very diverse, interdisciplinary skill sets. A top education and high level of technical skills are indispensable. The differentiator lies more in the right mix of intellectual capital, emotional intelligence, leadership excellence, intercultural competence, and the ability to be a superior networker. We help private equity firms assess top management during their due diligence. Human Capital is therefore the key success factor for a fruitful investment. Accordingly, assessing managerial competence and integrity are of paramount importance in the PE environment. Besides the assessment of the management team, organization and remuneration structure, a PE Investor will also overhaul the values, motivation and intentions of the key management and scrutinize their potential for the future journey. Through Industry Specializations, we help private equity firms and the best management for their portfolio companies. Once a PE firm has invested in a company, the investment has to be managed. A PE professional takes a place on the board, responsible for controlling the finances, monitoring the strategy and reporting accordingly. Additionally, they are on call for frequent management audits and hiring of top management.

Articles of Association & Model Documentations
Articles of Association & Model Documentations

The Articles of Association of SECA and SECA Model Documentations can be found on the SECA website: www.seca.ch/templates.aspx

SECA Model Documentation: Swiss Limited Partnership
SECA promoted and accompanied the introduction of the limited partnership in Swiss legislation very actively from the start. In a joint effort with the Swiss Funds & Asset Management Association SFAMA, SECA (under the lead of Hannes Glaus) has drawn up a model prospectus and a company agreement for the limited partnership for collective investments which was acknowledged and accepted by FINMA as the basis for applications of authorizations. The documentation helps structuring the limited partnership and aims at softening the application procedure with FINMA.

SECA Model Documentation: Venture Capital
Together with outside experts, SECA has drawn up a model documentation for smaller venture capital transactions in the range of CHF 5 – 20 Mio. The documentation comprising a term sheet, an investment agreement, a shareholders agreement, articles of association and board regulations can be downloaded below for free.

The documentation makes venture investments in Switzerland more efficient and has increasingly become a standard for venture investments in Switzerland. The Legal & Tax Chapter encourages everyone to let it know of any shortcomings in order to constantly improve the documentation.

SECA would like to thank its Legal & Tax Chapter for its initiative and the following participants for their contributions and the many hours which went into this documentation.

- Martin Frey, Baker & McKenzie
- Dieter Gerlcke, Homburger AG
- Hannes Glaus, Bratschi Wiederkehr & Buob
- Beat Kühn, Lenz & Staehelin
- Michael Trippel, Bär & Karrer AG
- Ulysses von Salls, Niederer Kraft & Frey AG
- Oliver Triebold, Schellenberg Wittmer
- Christian Wenger, Wenger & Vieli AG

The Legal & Tax Chapter has initiated a second update round for SECA’s VC Model Documentation to reflect regulatory changes as well as market input and envisages that the 3rd edition of the documentation set will be launched by the working group in Q2/G3 2017.

In addition, the Legal & Tax Chapter of SECA is aiming at launching a VC Model Documentation "light" that will be fully compatible with the regular VC Model Documentation for smaller (pre institutional investor) financing rounds, expected for launch also in Q2/Q3 2017.
